Sierra Leoneans To Watch Charles Taylor’s Trial Live

ACCORDING TO SLAJ’s president IB Kargbo, Sierra Leoneans will be able to watch live the trial of former Liberian president and Special Court indictee, Charles Taylor as it takes place in The Hague.

by JAMES COLE

Modalities are being put in place by “Search for Common Ground” and the ‘BBC’ to choose three journalists from Sierra Leone and two from Liberia to go to The Hague and cover the trial. Furthermore, the trial will be translated into the various languages as it was done in the Special Courts at Freetown. There was also talk of representatives of civil society organisations being given the same opportunity.

The trial will be relayed live via satellite. The Special Court has had several meetings with SLAJ and other stakeholders on their plans to make the victims of the war observe the trial and see justice being done and in this light they will be erecting a giant television screen at the Special Court and access will be given to people to watch the trial as it is relayed live.
"Lawyers are not liars"

-Sarkodie Mensah

BY SAIDU KAMARA

A prominent Ghanian legal luminary Mrs. Julia Sarkodie Mensah has defended lawyers in Freetown that they don't lie contrary to wider public perceptions about them.

As a legal consultant in judicial affairs attached to the Sierra Leone's Law Court Buildings, the learned lawyer made the remarks while presenting a paper on career counseling for senior secondary school pupils of the Freetown Secondary School for Girls (FSSG) held at the Miatta Conference hall last Saturday.

In her presentation, Mrs. Mensah noted that the profession is noble with upright people who reasonably think well and can articulate their views in either defending or prosecuting matters.

She encouraged pupils of FSSG to choose law as professional careers while carrying out their schooling in other to defend themselves, the general public fellow and the country as a whole.

"Don't listen to what people say. They just want to discourage you not to enter into the legal profession" she told the school pupils.

The law, she emphasized, strengthen people and makes them versatile.

Against the background that lawyers lie while arguing in court, the legal luminary reminded her audience not to listen to the distractions, noting that their work is based on logical arguments.

The programme was part of a career counseling organized by the Ghanaian Professionals Association in Sierra Leone (GHAPSIL) in collaboration with the Ghana High Commission as part of the 50th Independence Anniversary of Ghana.

While welcoming pupils to the programme, Mr. Clavence Adusei, the president of GHAPSIL introduced the 'Choosing Your Career' as the theme of the programme to the students.

On behalf of the banking profession in Sierra Leone, Mrs. A. Karen Tanoh's paper delivered introduced banking to the pupils. She is the Managing Director of ECOBANK in Sierra Leone who took the opportunity to introduce her institution to the students.

As a female banker, the ECOBANK boss encouraged girls to take up banking subjects in school as important priorities in their educational careers.

On behalf of the medical Profession, Prof. Yaw Adu-Gyamfi appealed to students to pursue medical careers so that their dreams of contributing to Sierra Leone's health status would be achieved.

The Ghanaian High Commission to Sierra Leone H.E. Dr. Mrs. Mokuwa Adu-Gyamfi chaired the ceremony by giving voice to the occasion while FSSG SS Acting Vice Principle Mrs. Worokia Conteh thanked the organizers for the outcome of the occasion.
Hinga Norman’s Family Rejects Autopsy Report

According to a press release signed by Alfred Sanforay (photo) of the Hinga Norman-CDF Defence Fund, the family of Chief Sam Hinga Norman "does not accept or endorse the recently released forensic pathologists' report alleging that Chief Hinga Norman died of "natural causes" as a result of myocardial infarction (heart attack) as the definitive and exclusive cause of death."

The release further stated the Norman family still stands by its original assertion that Chief Norman died under sub-standard medical and clinical conditions, medical neglect and / or possible human intervention in the natural healing process at the Aristide La Dantec Hospital in Dakar, Senegal on 22 February 2007.

According to the press release, the Norman family is presently in legal and medical consultations abroad of their own choosing and at their own expense and will make an official statement in response to the autopsy and toxicological reports as soon as possible.

"Meanwhile, friends and supporters of Chief Hinga Norman, in particular members of the Kamajors Movement, are well advised that the struggle to vindicate the good name and character of Mr. Mouina Fatane, Dr. Alieu Kontewa and Chief Hinga Norman was not buried with Chief Norman."

the release stated.

Among other things, the release admonished Kamajors to stay the course and ended with a biblical reference: "We know that any one who puts his hands on the plow and turns back is not worthy of the prize. With respect to the indicted CDF leaders, their cause to defend and to stand for their rights continues to be our eternal refrain until in the words of the Hebrew Prophet Amos, "judgment rolls down like waters, and righteousness like a mighty stream." God Bless All!"

Liberia: New House Speaker Discusses Priorities
By James Butty. Washington, D.C.

After months of controversy and legal wrangling, the Liberian House of Representatives has a new speaker. He is Alex J. Tyler of the Liberia Action Party. He replaced former Speaker Edwin Snowe who resigned earlier this year after he was threatened with removal by his colleagues for allegedly bringing the House in disrepute. Snowe blamed the executive branch for bribing some legislators with $5,000 each to remove him.

UNMIL here till the job is done, says UN Envoy, as he decorates Senegalese peacekeepers

Harper, Liberia – The UN Envoy to Liberia, Mr. Alan Doss has re-assured Liberians that the UN Mission in Liberia - UNMIL - will not leave the country prematurely. He was speaking at a medal presentation ceremony in the southeastern port city of Harper, Maryland County during which Senegalese peacekeepers were decorated, for their contribution to the UN peacekeeping operation in Liberia.

“UNMIL is not leaving yet” he declared. “We will not put at risk the gains that have been made so far in returning Liberia to peace and stability”.

The Special Representative of the Secretary General, acknowledged the progress made in the country since the inception of the UN Peace Mission in October 2003, saying, Liberia was on the path to recovery after long years of conflict, but he noted also that West Africa had not yet escaped the shadow of conflict. “We cannot be complacent. We must continue to be vigilant and provide essential security until the national security forces are ready to take over”.

Mr. Doss commended the contribution of the Senegalese peacekeepers to the progress taking place in Liberia. He said their daily patrols, escorts, and check-point duties have helped maintain security in Maryland County and contributed to the realization of UNMIL’s principal mandate of establishing and maintaining a stable environment in Liberia. Mr. Doss praised the Senegalese soldiers for going beyond their peacekeeping duty to provide assistance to local communities, and reminded them of their fundamental duty of care to the people of Liberia, especially women and children, urging them to strictly abide by the Secretary-General’s policy of zero tolerance for sexual exploitation and abuse.

At the same event, Mr. Doss also inaugurated a Peace Monument erected by the Senegalese peacekeepers as a symbol of cooperation between the Senegalese contingent and the people of Maryland County. The medal-presentation ceremony was attended by UNMIL Force Commander, Lieutenant-General Chikadibia Isaac Obiakor, the Deputy Minister of Internal Affairs, the UNMIL Director of Administration, Stephen Leiberman and county authorities.
