I. INTRODUCTION

1. On 4 April 2007 the Prosecution filed “Rule 73bis Pre-Trial Conference Materials” which comprised of: (i) a pre-trial brief (“Pre-Trial Brief”); (ii) a witness list (“Witness List”); (iii) summaries of the facts to which each witness will testify; (iv) an expert witness list; and (v) an exhibit list (“Exhibit List”) (which materials are together hereinafter referred to as the “PTC Materials”).<sup>1</sup>
2. It has now come to the attention of the Prosecution that the PTC Materials contained certain typographical and other errors including the inadvertent deletion of words between pages 13 and 14 of the Pre-Trial Brief and the erroneous submission of a signature page of the Pre-Trial Brief which contained duplicative text. Accordingly, the Prosecution files this corrigendum to correct the Court record. The Prosecution also seeks leave to substitute corrected pages for those pages of the PTC Materials which are the subject of the corrigendum. The corrected pages are set out in the attached four annexes.

II. CORRIGENDUM

3. The Prosecution corrects the Pre-Trial Brief as set out in the chart below. In the fourth column of the chart new text is shown underlined and deletions are shown as strikethrough.

The Emergence of the Common Plan, Design or Purpose (Common Plan)

6. Prior to the commencement of the armed conflict in Sierra Leone, and throughout the armed conflict, the Accused participated in a common plan, design or purpose to gain and maintain political power and physical control over the territory of Sierra Leone, in particular the diamond mining areas, in order to exploit the natural resources of the country. Implementation of this common plan included overthrowing the government of Sierra Leone in order to facilitate access to its natural resources and to install a government that would be well disposed toward, and supportive of, the Accused's interests and objectives in Liberia and the region.<sup>4</sup>
7. This common plan amounted to or involved the commission of the crimes alleged in the Amended Indictment (Indictment). From its inception, the Accused and the other participants in the common plan used criminal means to achieve and hold political power and physical control over the civilian population of Sierra Leone. These criminal means involved the campaign of terror waged against the civilian population of Sierra Leone, including widespread and continuing killings, rapes, beatings and mutilations, enslavement of the civilian population for use as fighters, "bush wives" and forced labour, looting and burning of civilian property. Children were used to carry out this criminal campaign and in active hostilities.<sup>5</sup>
8. The Accused, as leader of the NPFL was instrumental in the creation of this common plan. The Accused and Foday Sankoh, the leader of the RUF (Revolutionary United Front), made common cause to assist each other in their respective countries to achieve the common plan. From the outset, the Accused and his forces worked virtually as one with Sankoh and his RUF forces, and with the organised armed groups and forces that later evolved. To that end, Sankoh and his RUF forces assisted the Accused during the Liberian armed conflict which commenced in 1989.<sup>6</sup>
9. The Accused assumed and maintained the overall leadership role in the implementation of the common plan. Liberian subordinates of the Accused, including Benjamin Yeaten, also known as (aka) "50" or "General 50", Musa Sesay aka Musa Cisse, Grace Minor, Joe Tuah, Roland Duoh, Christopher Varmoh aka "Liberian Mosquito", Momoh Gibba, Duopo Makerzon (or Duopo Merkazon or Dopo Megazon or Dopoe Megazon), Sampson Weah, and Zig Zag Marzah continued to participate in this common plan. Therefore, the crimes charged in the Indictment were foreseeable consequences of the common plan.<sup>9</sup>

The Context in which the Common Plan was Implemented

12. The Accused participated in the common plan in a variety of ways: by planning, ordering, instigating and aiding and abetting the commission of the crimes carried out as part of a widespread and systematic attack<sup>10</sup> against the civilian population of Sierra Leone and in the context of the armed conflict in that country. This armed conflict began in March 1991, when Sankoh's RUF and the Accused's NPFL forces attacked Sierra Leone.<sup>11</sup>
13. The participants in the armed conflict included members of the RUF which mounted the initial armed attacks into Sierra Leone along with members of the NPFL. During the armed conflict, RUF forces were commonly referred to as "RUF", "rebels" and "People's Army." RUF members who were trained in Libya, including Sankoh, were known as "Special Forces"; that status conferred power and recognition. The NPFL also had such "Special Forces". RUF members trained in Liberia, including Issa Sesay, Morris Kallon, Augustine Gbao, were known as "Vanguards"; this status also conferred power and recognition. RUF members trained by the Vanguards in Sierra Leone at the beginning of the war were known as "Junior Commandos".<sup>12</sup>
14. Another organised armed group which participated in the armed conflict was the AFRC (Armed Forces Revolutionary Council), which took control of Sierra Leone after a coup on May 25, 1997. The AFRC was comprised predominantly of members of the Sierra Leone Army (SLA). At the invitation of the Chairman of the AFRC, Johnny Paul Koroma, and upon Sankoh's order, the RUF joined with the AFRC within days of the coup. The AFRC and RUF formed a joint government (Junta). The Junta created the Supreme Council as its governing body. This body included leaders of both the AFRC and the RUF. The Junta forces were commonly referred to as "Junta", "rebels", "soldiers", "SLA", "ex-SLA" and "People's Army". After the commencement of armed hostilities in Sierra Leone. They were carried out pursuant to the Accused's direction and with his assistance.<sup>22</sup>

- 24. From the commencement of the conflict in 1991, until about 1994, the Accused exercised authority and control over the RUF. Most of the commanders of the composite force which initiated the conflict in Sierra Leone were members of the NPFL. The Accused was the superior commander over this composite force.<sup>23</sup>
- 25. From about 1993 or 1994 until about 1996, ULIMO (United Liberation Movement for Democracy in Liberia) was in control of the border areas in Lofa County, cutting off a main supply and access route to Sierra Leone. During this time, the Accused maintained his position of individual or joint control and authority over the RUF through radio communications with Sankoh.<sup>24</sup>
- 26. The Accused, individually or in concert with Sankoh, exercised authority and control over the RUF and the RUF component of the Junta, from about 1996 until about April 1997, when Sankoh was arrested and detained in Nigeria. At that time, Sankoh conveyed an order to his subordinates that they were to take orders from the Accused. After the Junta was forced from power, except for a short period in 1999 and 2000, the Accused exercised individual control and authority over the AFRC/RUF.<sup>25</sup>
- 27. After Sankoh's arrest and detention in 1997, he appointed Bockarie as the in-country leader of the RUF. At a meeting in Kono, Johnny Paul Koroma stated that Bockarie would now be in control of the AFRC component as well. Bockarie was headquartered in Buedu, Kailahun District. Bockarie's next in command was Issa Sesay. Other senior level leaders of the AFRC/RUF included those persons mentioned in paragraph 15 above. Bockarie took his instructions from the Accused and/or his senior level subordinates. As discussed in paragraph 94 below, after the Junta was overthrown by ECOMOG (Economic Community of West African States Monitoring Group), a group of AFRC broke away from the AFRC/RUF alliance, however, most AFRC remained in the alliance and reported to Bockarie.<sup>26</sup> civilian population of Sierra Leone. The Accused provided continuing assistance to the RUF, Junta, AFRC/RUF, including arms, ammunition and other materiel, manpower, military training, facilities and safe havens in Liberia, strategic and tactical advice, direction and encouragement, and other assistance.<sup>46</sup>

51. This assistance enabled the members of the RUF, Junta and AFRC/RUF to carry out the campaign of terror charged in Counts 1 through 11 of the Indictment. The Accused's assistance had a substantial effect on the ability of the RUF, Junta and AFRC/RUF to commit the murders, mutilations and beatings, rapes, sexual slavery, enslavement, looting and other crimes charged in the Indictment. The Accused provided this assistance with full knowledge that these crimes had been and were being committed, or with the awareness of the substantial likelihood that his assistance, encouragement, or moral support would assist the commission of these crimes.<sup>47</sup>
52. The assistance provided by the Accused was curtailed from about 1994 until about 1996 when ULIMO controlled much of the border area between Liberia and Sierra Leone, in particular, the border area between Sierra Leone and Lofa County. During this time, the Accused continued to provide direction, advice and encouragement to the RUF via radio and phone contact. During this period, the Accused directed the RUF to construct an airstrip in Kailahun District. The Accused and RUF were unable to use this airstrip because of attacks from ECOMOG jets.<sup>48</sup>
53. The RUF, Junta and AFRC/RUF gave the Accused diamonds obtained from Sierra Leone for arms, ammunition and other supplies which he provided.<sup>49</sup>

Arms and Ammunition

54. Prior to the commencement of the armed conflict in Sierra Leone, and during the conflict, the Accused provided the RUF, Junta and AFRC/RUF with arms, ammunition and associated materiel. This assistance was most frequently provided during the periods from about 1990 until about 1994, and from about early 1998 through early 2002. The materiel provided included the shipment of arms and ammunition to Magburaka air strip, Tonkolili District, in the fall of 1997, and the shipments used for the attack against Koidu, Makeni and many other locations in late 1998, as part of the operation to re-take Kono and Freetown.<sup>50</sup>

55. The materiel was stored in facilities at various locations in Liberia, including the Accused's residences in Gbarnga and Monrovia, and at the Executive Mansion in Monrovia. Subordinates of the Accused working at these storage facilities would provide the materiel to the RUF, Junta, and AFRC/RUF on the instructions of the Accused. These instructions were usually communicated through a senior level subordinate such as Benjamin Yeaten.<sup>51</sup>

Manpower

56. The Accused provided subordinate Liberian personnel to assist the RUF, Junta – in particular the RUF component and AFRC/RUF throughout the early 1990s and throughout the conflict. For instance, in 1998, the Accused sent several hundred men of the Scorpion Unit to fight with the RUF. The Accused drew these personnel from the NPFL, other organised armed groups within Liberia, the Liberian population in general and, after the Accused became President, from the AFL, special units such as SSS and ATU and the LNP. These personnel functioned in a variety of roles, for example, as fighters, trainers, and communications operators. In the early years of the armed conflict in Sierra Leone, some of these personnel were in positions of superior authority over both the Liberian and RUF fighters in their units. These commanders and their Liberian fighters were subordinate only to the Accused. After most of the initial Liberian contingent was withdrawn, many remained, some in command positions in the RUF, e.g. Dennis Mingo aka "Superman". The Accused also provided personnel for particular operations, such as for the attack on Freetown in January 1999.<sup>52</sup>
57. In addition to the fighters, military trainers and communications operators, the Accused also provided personnel to facilitate the movement of RUF, Junta, and AFRC/RUF members between Sierra Leone and Liberia. These personnel also

NPFL base in Bomi Hills. The Accused provided Sankoh with a residence in Gbarnga, from which he made trips to RUF locations in Sierra Leone to distribute arms, ammunition and other materiel and supplies provided by the Accused. Additional facilities made available to the AFRC/RUF included a guest house in Monrovia, from about 1998 through about 2001. The Accused provided the security for this guest house, the domestic staff, and equipment for the communications centre established there to enable continuous communication between the guest house and RUF, Junta and AFRC/RUF locations in Sierra Leone.<sup>56</sup>

61. In the early years of the conflict in Sierra Leone, the RUF would fall back into areas of Liberia controlled by the Accused in order to avoid capture or elimination by Sierra Leonean government forces or those assisting the government forces. The RUF fighters would retreat to NPFL areas and bases or facilities such as those at Bomi Hills, where they would rest and reorganise. The Accused would re-provision these fighters with arms and ammunition in preparation for their return to Sierra Leone to continue their attacks against the civilian population.<sup>57</sup>

Strategic and Tactical Advice, Direction and Encouragement

62. Throughout the conflict, the Accused provided advice, direction and encouragement to the RUF, Junta - in particular the RUF component, and the AFRC/RUF. As discussed above in paragraphs 11 and 26-28, leaders of these groups conferred with the Accused before making significant decisions and were in frequent contact with him. In addition, from 1998 until the end of the conflict, the Accused regularly sent Liberian subordinates and associates to Sierra Leone to provide guidance and advice to Bockarie and Issa Sesay. These personnel included, but were not limited to, Benjamin Yeaten, Ibrahim Bah, Musa Sesay, Duopo Makerzon (or Duopo Merkazon or Dopo Megazon or Dopoe Megazon), Christopher Varmoh, Daniel Tamba aka "Jungle." They provided advice and guidance on military and strategy matters and also regarding the mining operations in Kono district.<sup>58</sup>
